

GRAD ENGINEER ADDRESSES THE CHEMICAL CLUB

Commercial Methods of Carbon Dioxide Production

DETAILED ACCOUNT

Properties and Uses of Carbonic Acid Gas Fully Explained

A detailed and practical account of modern commercial methods of production of carbon dioxide, was given before the Chemical Society yesterday at five o'clock by Mr. J. R. Donald, graduate in Arts and Applied Science from McGill and managing director of the J. T. Donald Company.

The speaker gave a clear explanation of each of the processes; and illustrated his remarks by references to diagrams. He was during the summer engaged in purifying carbon dioxide obtained from the fermentation of beer; and has already had a great deal to do with commercial developments in Canada, of the production of this gas. He proposed to treat at first of the historical aspect of the subject.

Van Helmont in the 17th century, was the first to observe scientifically that this gas was produced during the processes of fermentation and combustion; and that it was the same gas in each case. In 1755, Black recognized that it was a constant constituent of the atmosphere, and named it "fixed air." It remained for Lavoisier to determine its exact chemical composition and to state that it was an oxide of carbon.

Certainly it must have been observed long ago by the ancients, who are known to have speculated on the ideas and causes of fermentation. It occurs in limestone, in the earth's crust, as well as in plants, animals and the atmosphere. Its first commercial application was in beverages; and the fact that it occurs in limestone resulted in the first practical method of its production on a large scale. All the later practical difficulties have to do with its purification.

In 1902 was instituted the magnesite method, the carbon dioxide being produced from the magnesium carbonate contained in the mineral. This process was entirely replaced in 1910 by the coke method. And this in turn, it appears, will be replaced in time by the activated carbon method.

In the magnesite method steel retorts to enormous heat; this resulted in a production of magnesium oxide and carbon dioxide gas from the contained magnesium carbonate. When no more gas was given off, the magnesite was removed and the kilns recharged. The solid oxide of magnesium was sold to chemical plants engaged in the manufacture of oxychloride used in cement. Magnesite was originally obtained from the Grecian Archipelago; but a similar mineral was in 1910 discovered near Calumet, Que. This is not a pure magnesite but contains lime which interferes with the direct production of the carbonic acid gas. But it was soon found that by careful and graded heating, the gas could be obtained before calcium oxide interfered.

The coke process superseded the former in 1910, and is still in use today. Carbon dioxide is produced by the burning of coke either over an electric furnace, or indirectly by power produced from steam. In Canada, where electric power is cheaper, the former is employed; in the United States, the latter or steam power is preferred. The gas containing impurities is first sent through water scrubbers which remove dust and sulphur dioxide; and then through tall towers (absorbers) packed with coke and with potassium carbonate trickling down. Dilute acids convert the potassium to the acid bicarbonate which is itself converted to lime; and the lime is circulated through exchangers back to the towers, thus purifying the main product. In this process a great deal of plant is involved and the absorption towers demand a great deal of care and attention. By this method plants can produce 25,000 lbs. of carbon dioxide per day.

The third and last commercial method to be discussed was that of the activated carbon process, which seems likely to replace even the coke process. Specially prepared nut carbon is used and the carbon dioxide produced in 99.8 per cent. pure. The purifying part of the apparatus is a

B.N.A. ACT ISSUE AT MOCK PARLIAMENT

Takes Place on Wednesday Evening

UNION BALLROOM

Both Parties Prepare Arguments to Debate Question Before House

A Bill amending the British North American Act to empower Canada to change her own Constitution will be the issue of debate at the next session of the Mock Parliament which will be held this Wednesday evening in the Ballroom of the Union. The text of the Bill to be presented is as follows:-

"That this House do petition His Majesty to amend the British North American Act, adding the following two clauses to the same. 1. This constitution shall not be altered except in the following manner:-

The proposed law for the alteration thereof must be passed by an absolute majority of each House of the Parliament and not less than two nor more than six months after its passage through both Houses the proposed law shall be submitted in each province to the electors qualified to vote for the election of members of the House of Commons.

But if the House of Commons passes any such proposed law by an absolute majority, and the Senate rejects or fails to pass it or passes it with any amendment to which the House of Commons will not agree, and if after an interval of three months the House of Commons in the same or next session again passes the proposed law by an absolute majority with or without any amendment which has been made or agreed to by the Senate, and the Senate rejects or fails to pass it or passes it with any amendment to which the House of Commons will not agree, the Governor-General may submit the proposed law as last proposed by the House of Commons, and either with or without any amendments subsequently agreed to by both Houses, to the electors of each province qualified to vote for the election of the House of Commons.

When a proposed law is submitted to the electors the vote shall be taken in such a manner as the House of Commons prescribes. And if in a majority of the States a majority of the electors voting approve the proposed law, it shall be presented to the Governor-General for the King's consent. No appeal shall be permitted to the King in Council from a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada. The right now exercised by the King in virtue of His Royal Prerogative to grant special appeal from the Supreme Court of Canada or any other Canadian Court of criminal or civil jurisdiction to His Majesty in Council is hereby abolished.

B. This petition will not be sent to His Majesty until it has been agreed to by the legislatures of a majority of the provinces.

shell within a steam chest composed of a system of tubes; above which is the activated carbon. The gas is sent through and the impurities taken out, and by the time it leaves the apparatus above the activated carbon, is very pure chemically. The activated gas lasts indefinitely; but care must be taken in its heating and cleaning. Nowadays, carbon dioxide is transported under a pressure of 1000 lbs. per sq. in., soft steel in tubes that are able to stand at least twice that pressure. It is used in many ways, its largest market being the beverage industry. It is also used as a preservative, and its antiseptic action is now known to be due to the increased hydrogen ion concentration produced by its use. It is used in several ways for refrigeration, especially in hospitals, in butchers' windows, and ice machines. In Germany it has been successfully employed as fertilizer; and small amounts of it have been reported to work districts. But its greatest use of the future will be, probably, as a fire extinguisher. MANITOBA RUNS RUGBY SPECIAL

Takes Students to Manitoba
—Minneapolis Game

Winnipeg, Nov. 19.—(By Exchange Service).—Unexpected interest is being shown in the Winnipeg to Minneapolis Football Trip sponsored by the Manitoban, undergraduate paper at the University of Manitoba, with a large number of students already signed up as members.

As far as could be learned this is the first time that such a venture has been undertaken by any undergraduate newspaper and the international feature of the trip makes it an outstanding one. Enquiries for information have been coming into The Manitoban office ever since the first announcement was made last Thursday and many people outside of the University have asked if they could join the party.

In order that the entire trip may take on an University nature, special programmes and menus are being provided on the train, in University colors. The Manitoban will be officially represented by the editor, and the University will be represented by one of the members of the faculty. Members of the Athletic Directorate and the U.M.S.U. Council will also be on the tour and will extend an official invitation to the students at the University of Minnesota to come to Winnipeg during the winter. It is expected that the Minnesota Daily will foster the return trip and negotiations are now under way between the two college publications.

Following the interest shown by the student body it is predicted that nearly a hundred students will see the game. The train leaves Winnipeg today at 4.45 and arrives in Minneapolis Saturday morning. After seeing the game between Minnesota and Michigan in the afternoon the students will be entertained in the city during the evening. On Sunday night the party will leave on the return trip to Winnipeg.

Dental Dance To Be Held In Med Building

That the date of the Dental Dance has been officially set at Dec. 3rd is the statement made by the Dance Committee, which has been working hard in preparation for the banner social event of the Dental Faculty. The dance, which is held in the Medical Building, is one of the major informals of the year. A good orchestra will be hired and tenders for this and sketches for programs must be handed to the committee before noon on Monday.

The final meeting of the Dance Committee will be held at the Dental Clinic on Monday at 3.30 when the orchestra and program will be chosen from among the tenders and the designs submitted.

SCIENCE LECTURES FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

A List of Three Lectures Will Be Given

Juvenile science lectures and experimental demonstrations will again be put on this year at Christmas time according to an announcement made by the University. Last Christmas over 300 children attended these lectures to find out many things that puzzle the juvenile mind such as: why things spin, what the stars are made of, and the hows and whys of ships.

Heading the list of lectures is Leslie Thompson, M.E.I.C., who will give one of his ship lectures, which the children annually demand. Last year, Mr. Thompson had every child singing chantes like true sailors, and equal success is expected this year with "Mysteries of the Sea" which will be given on Monday, Dec. 27, at 7.45 p.m.

"Drops and Bubbles" is the second lecture. It will be given by Dr. D. A. Keys, F.R.S.C., who will speak at the same hour on December 28.

Dr. A. S. Eve, F.R.S., who has a way with children, and had to give his lecture all over again last time to the children who crowded round him, will talk this year on "Things That Swing," and a number of fascinating experiments are promised. His lecture will be the fourth and last of the series, to be given on December 31. "Radio" is the subject of the third talk which is expected to prove a great attraction to both boys and girls. For this lecture the physics department has secured Major W. A. Steel M.C., R.C.C.S., a great authority on signals. He will speak on December 30, and will illustrate his lecture with experiments which are expected to captivate every small boy in the audience. This is Major Steel's first appearance as a Christmas lecturer for the McGill juvenile series.

All lectures will be given in the Macdonald Physics Building at 7.45 p.m.

HOCKEY WORKOUT AT FORUM YESTERDAY

Heney Back in Nets; C.I.H.A.
Meeting Here

No effective new material was unearthed at the second practise of the hockey squad yesterday at the Forum. Most of the hockey highlights around the University were not present on account of the intense rugby activity on the eve of the playoff.

Jeff Heney returned to his customary position between the posts, and performed with surprising agility. Pindley and Manson were out again and showed fair form in the nets. Jack Mitchell again gave promise of future performance, when he showed clever stickhandling. The Winnipeg man should show up after some conditioning.

McMahon, Paul Smith Bell and McGerrie all of last year's team, skated around in good fashion.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Intercollegiate Hockey Association takes place in Montreal this week-end. The schedule for the coming season will most likely be announced on the completion of the sessions.

CONSTITUTION IS AT STAKE IN PARLIAMENT

A Startling New Issue At Mock
Parliament

NEXT WEDNESDAY

Move to Amend British North America Act is on Foot

A constitutional question of the utmost importance is to be discussed at the next meeting of the Mock Parliament in the Union ballroom on Wednesday evening. The policy of the government has become more nationalistic in character, according to the announcement made yesterday by the Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. John Humphrey. A request is to be formulated, begging the British Government to allow Canada to amend her own constitution without the sanction of the British Government.

The question is of the utmost gravity and seriousness, and one which should raise a great deal of discussion. The policy of the government will, however be well defended by the Prime Minister and his leading supporters. Mr. Humphrey has not yet announced his cabinet, but a complete cabinet is expected to be announced at the beginning of next week.

Among the names which are most prominent in the public eye at the moment, it is expected that the Prime Minister will have no difficulty in finding good talent the only difficulty will be to choose from the many clever men who now represent the Patrians in parliament in such a way as to arouse no sectional feeling and no jealousy among those who have not been contained in the Cabinet, through the position of the premier in having to satisfy every area of Canada. Among those who are sure to be on the Cabinet are Hon. Willard Bowes, Mr. Ken Sims, Mr. Millar Hyde Hon. George Stark (Trade and Commerce) Bernard Alexander, John Cunningham, Frank Godine and Bob Gammet.

The Prime Minister gave an official announcement, to the press yesterday afternoon, which read in part:

"A bill to amend the British North America Act will be demanded of the British Parliament. We as the legal parliament of Canada can do nothing in this regard except to draw up a demand, begging of the British Parliament for autonomy in this regard. The demand will be passed on to the provincial parliaments before it is sent to the Mother Country and the sending of it to England is conditional only on the majority of the provinces sending a similar request. The demand is that two clauses should be added to the constitution, permitting Canada to amend her own constitution in the same way as Australia and South Africa. The second clause of the amendment would be that the appeal to the Privy Council should be abolished. At present, of course, we have appeal by grace only. The appeal by statute was abolished quite a time ago. Now one cannot by right appeal a (Continued on page four)

WINTRY WEATHER FOR U.S. FOOTBALL

Michigan and Northwestern
Fight for Title

Chicago, Ills November 19.—Into the teeth of snow flurries and chilling winds five western conference elevens trekked today toward the final battles in the Big Ten campaign.

The teams were clad like Alaskan dog mushers in hoods extra sweaters and mittens and found tomorrow's gridlions buried in straw and canvas to take some of the hardship out of the coldest football of the fall.

In the van of the invasions were Michigan and Northwestern the two teams undefeated in the conference title fight and ending the season with desperate efforts to get nothing less than a tie and possibly a lone claim on the championship. Michigan is a slight favorite to down Minnesota.

Northwestern taking no chances on an upset worked out in the snow and departed for Iowa with the entire squad in tow.
The Illinois line-up starting against Ohio will be the array that stopped both Chicago and Pennsylvania.
Indiana bent on balancing successive conference defeats with a tri-

Athletic Board Gives Band Two Hundred Fifty

The Athletic Board of Control voted $250.00 towards the expenses of the band next year at their meeting yesterday. The members of the Athletic board expressed their appreciation of the services the band has rendered them this year and complimented them on their skill and appearance at the games.

The Athletic board also approved the enlarging of the bleachers at the Stadium in contemplation of larger crowds at the games next year. Instead of lengthening the bleachers, they will be carried back ten rows from the centre section. Thus enabling spectators to sit in the centre of the field instead of at the ends.

STUDENTS VICTORS IN CHESS FEATURE

Professors Beaten 5 to 0 In Annual Match

The annual chess match between professors and students took place in the Union last night.

The members of the staff were represented by Dr. A. S. Eve, M.A., D.Sc. R.R.S.C., F.R.S., C.B.E.; Prof. Smith M.A., Dr. Day, B.A. B.Sc., D.Phil; Prof. Williams, M.A. Ph.D. and Prof. Wallace.

Determined to avenge their defeat of last year, they were met by the no less determined and confident students most of whom were members of last year's "B" team.

The latter kept up their good record by a decisive win, the score being 5 to 0.

The individual results were as follows:
Dr. Eve 0.....M. Garmaise 1
Prof. Smith 0.....L. Kursner 1
Dr. Day 0.....P. S. Wise 1
Prof. Williams 0.....M. White 1
Prof. Wallace 0.....H. Cohen 1

The match aroused considerable interest. Many undergrads came down to watch the game, sauntering from table to table, and remaining to the end.

The professors, nothing undaunted now look forward to the return match, which takes place in March. They will be their last chance to turn the tables this season.

EX-DEAN OF ARTS VISITS MCGILL AGAIN

Dr. Gordon Laing Will Speak Here
Monday

CANADIAN CLUB

Guest of Dr. Leacock To Speak Before Faculty
Club

The McGill Student Body has been fortunate enough to profit by the visit of Dr. Gordon Laing to Montreal to obtain his consent to lecture next Monday afternoon under the auspices of the McGill Canadian Club.

Dr. Laing, since his acceptance of the post of Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies at the University of Chicago, has yet had time to make several visits to Montreal, where he spent several years of his life. His visits are rendered more delightful by the fact that one of his college chums, Dr. Leacock, is in Montreal. Both through this connection and the fact that he was on the Faculty of McGill for a few years, he has always held McGill in very high regard. During his stay in this city he will be the guest of Dr. Leacock. Monday evening he will speak at a dinner given by the Faculty Club, his topic being "Trials of a University Professor."

Dr. Laing is a graduate of the University of Toronto of the Class of '91, and an old college chum of Dr. Leacock.

After graduating from 'Varsity he practiced law for some time, but soon turned to the John's Hopkins University and graduated from there with a Ph.D. degree. He then travelled in Europe and studied for some time in Italy.

Dr. Laing is now holding the high position of Dean of the Graduate School at the Chicago University. However, before taking this post, he was Dean of the Faculty of Arts at this University during 1921-22.

INTERCOLLEGIATE EDITORS ASSEMBLE

Conference this Week Meets at Champaign, Ill

This week the second annual meeting of the National Conference of Intercollegiate Newspaper Editors and Managers is convening at Champaign, Illinois, until Saturday next. The organization's first meeting was held last year at Dartmouth, and this year the host is the University of Illinois. A. F. Priebe of the latter association, and president of the association, and E. T. Richards, Editor-in-Chief of the Brown Daily Herald, is vice-president.

The purpose of the Congress is to bring representatives of the Eastern college papers into touch with representatives from the West. Prominent men in the journalistic field have been secured to speak at the meeting, as well as the college editors and managers. Ideas will be exchanged and major problems will be discussed by experienced people, and it is also hoped that better feeling will be prompted between universities in different sections of the country.

MANDOLIN PRACTICE CANCELLED

The usual practice of the Mandolin Club which was scheduled for tomorrow morning at the Palace Theatre cannot take place. Go it, Red Team

TODAY the rugby squad is playing its second-last game! This statement is broad enough to admit of no misconception — McGill is going to win! Our best wishes go with the team, our representatives this afternoon. Wishes, however, sincere, though, are not sufficient to instill the necessary fighting spirit which a team has every right to have during its home games. We shall all be there, but we must all do our share in the victory today. Let's not start afterwards — in that case we may not have a chance to celebrate. Let's make the rooster's stand run wild! Noise!

More pep, Boys!

Our Obligations

IN every walk of life honest and honorable men are found to insist strenuously on living up to their obligations, obligations which may be towards certain persons, certain institutions, or certain creeds or doctrines. This sense of obligation towards such and such a subject is particularly keen in men who have proven their trustworthiness and integrity through their successes in the world of business or of science. Living up to one's obligations cannot, therefore, be said to be derogatory to one's chance of advancement in life, but is indeed a quality which can bring about nothing but a greater esteem from one's fellows. To no one thing, indeed, can a man owe more of his success than to a sense of responsibility. Responsibility, a sense of idealism, a stalwart defense of life-thrilling traditions, call it what you will, is at the root of all ambition. And without ambition a man is but a wretched failure. Even behind your activities at college, is there not the idea that you are making some people happy, a certain eagerly acclaiming girl, perhaps?

Here at college we have a wonderful opportunity of studying our present obligations, and the building up of our future idealism, by pre-consideration of those things which will bind us, whether for good or for evil, in after-life. These influences must be chosen cautiously and carefully, and at college ample time is given to build up in oneself a subconscious knowledge of the worthiness of some of the powers which may come to bear upon us. At McGill we have traditions and ideals of which we are all proud, but nevertheless we often fail to take these very ideals as our examples and models of conduct. Every institution of higher learning is rife with memories of brilliant past history. The memory of men who made the university, men who had a deep-seated love for their kind, the men who are continually, through their brilliant careers in the outside world making a name for McGill, a name which is growing in importance in the eyes of the world through the deeds of the glorious alumni: we have all this shining past to look back upon, this fathomless well to draw upon for inspiration. Then there is the economic factor. Parents' unselfishness has provided the means of extending your working capital of knowledge and intelligence. Are you taking advantage of your opportunities, are you living up to your obligations to those who are providing for you? Great philanthropists of the past have endowed your university. Are you living up to your obligations to the founders of your Alma Mater? You have the greatest of all gifts — life. Are you living up to your obligations to yourself.

Next Week At The Theatre

At The Gayety

Patrons and lovers of burlesque are promised entertainment out of the ordinary when Frances Farr's "Sky Rockets" entitled "Follies and Dollies" opens up on Sunday evening for one week at the Gayety local home of Mutual Burlesque, supporting Miss Farr is Mr. Charles Cole and a very capable cast.

"Sky Rockets" can be called a speedy revue with an abundance of clean original comedy, excellent dancing, tuneful music, pleasing voices and in fact everything that goes to make a merry frolicsome show, the offering of Frances Farr is without doubt one of the most outstanding shows of the season, and before the show of this season went on the road a collection of the very best material available in talent, costumes and scenery was gathered with the result that a snappy speedy, stylish shows of good proportions is placed at the disposal of the patrons and a thoroughly enjoyable show is offered to patrons. That magnetic battery of animation and melody, Frances Farr is the dominating personage of the show, and she is splendidly aided in her funmaking by Charles Cole, a comedian who is a very original, artistic and humorous. Harry Morris is another comedian with lots of opportunities of which he makes good use, and Eddie Lyon as a character comedian, helps to keep the tempo of the concoction at the essential speed. Buster Sanborn is the prima donna with an excellent voice, while Florence Drake as the ingenue contributes to the more softer moments of the entertainment. The chorus of dancing dollies are very efficient in wearing becoming costumes and singing and dancing with harmony and agility.

At The Capitol

"The Eagle of the Sea" the screen adaptation of Charles Tenny Jackson's well known and widely read novel "Captain Sazurac" is a highly romantic adventure story of pirate ships, fights at sea a plot to rescue Napoleon and the gallant love of Jean Lafitte the last of the buccaners. The picture not only records daring deeds of piracy but also reveals a romantic story that has seldom been equalled. The story in brief deals with the adventures and romance of Captain Sazurac who enters New Orleans in disguise, just as, "old Hickory" Jackson is being welcomed. There he rescues Louise Lustron played by Florence Vidor, when her horses run away. Then at a masked ball Lafitte's true identity is discovered by one of his old men. Jackson then gives him untold down to leave town and Lafitte becomes involved in a conspiracy to start war between England and the United States. How he sets out to sea once more not in the search of booty but beauty and what happens when his crew revolts; men of war follow and a gigantic fight is held, will cause spectators to sit up, take notice and cheer.

Ricardo Cortez, who enacts the part of Lafitte history's most gallant, daring, daring devil-god buccaneer, will carry spectators away with enthusiasm and will sweep you off your feet by his very audacity. It is said to be his most spectacular role. Supporting Cortez is Florence Vidor, who has never before appeared more beautiful, colorfully romantic or charmingly sweet as she does in this spirited swashbuckling melodrama of the sea. Others of importance in the cast include Andre Beranger, Sam de Grasse and many others.

The famous Capitol Symphony Orchestra under the baton of J. J. Gagner, will render the Overture "Rose-Marie" Comedy, News Reel and other short topics of interest will also be featured. On the stage will be featured a truly atmospheric Prologue of pirate splendour featuring Louis Chartier and the Shubert Male Chorus.

At The Imperial

Omer Herbert's Revue of Syncopations of 1926 is the headline act at the Imperial commencing tomorrow an act in which six artists sing, play and dance. Moss and Frye, the originators of "How High Is Up?" will be heard and seen in a dialogue of "hopeless nonsense." "Just Dumb" is the title of the comedy skit used by Nelson B. Clifford and Marie Marlon. Anita Pam and Company in "Home Comforts" have a new domestic farce of suburban life. Laura Ormsbee with Hal Pindlay at the piano offers "Moments of Melody" during which piano violin and voice are heard. The Worden Brothers complete the vaudeville bill with "Footology." "Young April" with Joseph Schildkraut Bessie Love Rudolph Schildkraut and Bryant Washburn in the cast will be the film presentation.

At Loew's Theatre

Harry Langdon's new comedy, "The Strong Man," will be seen at Loew's next week. In this picture he does some strenuous trapeze work which provides a combination of thrills and laughter. Priscilla Bonner, Gertrude Astor, William V. Mong and Robert McKim are in the supporting cast. "Town Topics" a revue featuring Billie "Uke" Carpenter will head the vaudeville bill. Norton and Brower appear in "Bughouse Fables" Casey and Warren have a sketch. "The Fog"; the Three Oretos will present "Danceology" and the Balas Trio offer a teeter-board novelty. A screen comedy Pathe News and a selection by Edmund Sanborn and his Symphonic Syncopators will complete the programme.

NOTED PIANIST

Former student at Conservatorium touring Europe.

Miss Ellen Ballon was born in Montreal on October 6th, 1898. Her parents had migrated to Canada from Russia in 1894. At the age of three she showed a marked musical talent and then became a pupil of Miss Clara Lichtenstein of the McGill School of Music.

At the age of five she appeared at the concert in Windsor Hall, and her performance was highly praised by the newspaper critics. In 1904 when the present McGill Conservatorium was opened, she won the Director's Exhibition Scholarship of $50.00.

At six she passed with distinction the elementary examinations of the associated Board of R.A.M. and R.C.M. In 1907 she left for New York to take up her studies with the famous Raphael Joseffy and Rubin Goldmark. When she was ten she appeared as soloist with the New York Symphony under Walter Damrosch. Throughout her early life she was helped by Sir William Macdonald, whose protegee she was.

During the war she gave a concert, the proceeds of which went to the McGill Woman's War Fund. Later she became a pupil of Hoffman, playing in New York and twice in Montreal. In 1925 she became a pupil of Bachhouse, who recommended her strongly to follow him to Vienna. She is now finishing several programs, in order to appear in Europe under the particular attention of Mr. Bachhouse and she hopes to appear later in the season in London, Paris, and Montreal.

STAGE SET FOR GREAT FOOTBALL CLASSIC TODAY

Record Crowd Expected In First Tilt (Rugby Play-Off)

SLIPPERY FIELD

Uncertain Footing Favorable to Blue and White — Early Start

TODAY the stage is set for what will probably prove to be one of the greatest football dramas ever enacted on a Montreal gridiron. Today, the blue and white team of Varsity meets McGill in the first of a two-game series for the intercollegiate honors — the first game of a three-cornered tie that has already made football history. The winner of this afternoon's battle will thus qualify to play Queen's for the 1926 intercollegiate championship which will be decided in Toronto next Saturday after the closest race since the union was inaugurated in 1887.

McGill football team held its last workout yesterday in preparation for today's game, the practice taking the form of a signal drill to brush up on the plays. Every man on the team is in top form and will go into the battle in perfect shape for a grueling struggle.

It was a close fight and a grueling one. Coach Ronnie MacPherson expects a close and hard battle though the condition of the gridiron will probably favor his heavy line-crashing machine. On a fast gridiron, it is doubtful whether his slow, if powerful blue and white squad could cope with the smarter and faster red team but on the slippery field, it remains a matter of doubt if the fast McGill half line can get moving. In Toronto, at Varsity's home game the McGill backs indulged in an orgy of passing and although the ball was coated with mud and the footing uncertain, not a fumble resulted from the open play. Varsity, too, showed an eagerness to open up in that game, a style of play that they have been reluctant to adopt in their other games.

Just what plan of attack Coach MacPherson will use against the red and white is occupying the minds of the McGill supporters in the pre-game speculations. Then, too, there is the question of kick formations which, from Toronto's point of view, have been all too weak this season and have been the indirect result of losing them more than one game. Coach MacPherson refuses to say whether he has a new formation or whether he has improved his old one — certain it is that this weakness which was manifest in the Kingston game will be corrected in the past week's drill. Just how much the blue and white squad will attempt to open up the play is another question and the chances are that on the slippery field they will hold to their careful game that characterized their playing in Kingston.

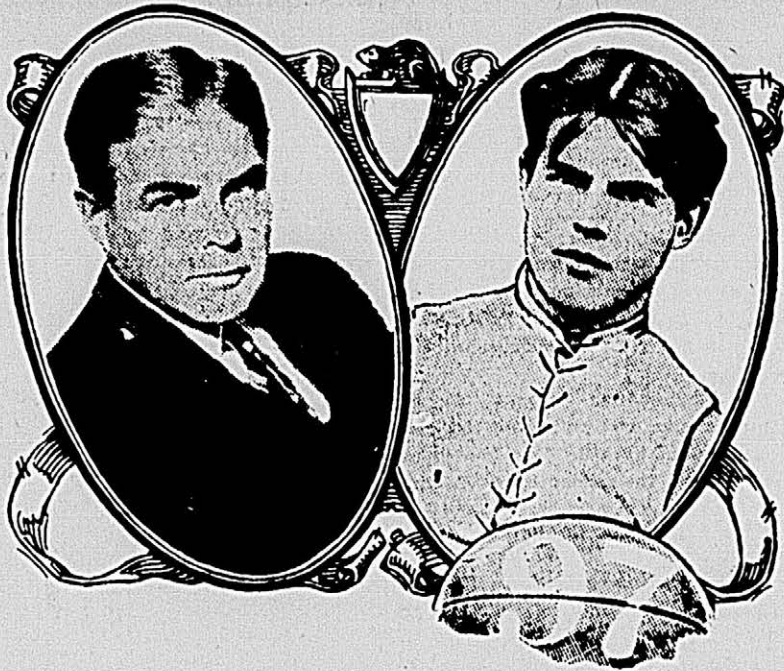

Twenty-two players arrived yesterday noon on the Varsity squad which made the trip and with the exception of a few members of the team who are suffering from slight colds, all the players are reported in good shape for the struggle. The blue and white is a team that has shown this season to be in extremely good condition for although outweighing their opponents by but a few pounds they have shown an ability to wear the opposition down by the power of their drive.

The demand for tickets since the pasteboards went on sale on Thursday show that a record crowd will push its way into Molson stadium this afternoon to watch the first game of the play-off. All Thursday and yesterday long lines waited for tickets and it is expected that the extra bleachers that have been thrown together for the occasion will be filled to capacity. The record crowd for Molson stadium is well over 12,000, hung up when Queen's and Varsity battled here for the honors in 1922, but indications point to an even greater crowd for this afternoon's contest.

The teams will line up as follows at 2.00 sharp:

Coach McPherson Looks For Close, Hard-Fought Contest

WILL NOT PREDICT

No Serious Injuries to Toronto — One or Two Have Colds

With the Toronto football team, aboard the Canadian Pacific Flyer, "The Canadian," from Chicago via Toronto, by Special Staff Correspondent.

"The Canadian," en route, Nov. 19 — "The word 'fair' is the only one that aptly describes the condition of my team," said Ronnie McPherson, coach of the Toronto football team to a correspondent of the Daily as the train bearing them to Montreal was speeding along its route. He thought that the fact that one or two members were suffering from rather bothersome head colds made it impossible to describe the condition of the team all round as better than fair. There are, however, no serious injuries.

The line-up for the big game will be substantially the same as announced by the Montreal papers this morning, with only a bare possibility of a last minute change.

When reminded, of the Boo-Hoo incident and asked whether he thought it possible, that in their enthusiasm McGill men might attempt to kidnap Stollery, Snyder or Trimble, coach McPherson said that he entertained no such fears. "I know McGill sportsmanship sufficiently well not to worry about anything like that," he said. What seemed to entertain the players themselves most was the weather conditions here for the past few days. When they were informed that it had

Some Rains Are Spotty

Keep the car out of thunder showers, if possible. Unlike rains of other seasons they are apt to serve on the car's finish. This is due to the fact that the rain which falls during such a storm often is dirt-laden. After some showers, cars look as though they had been sprinkled with a mild variety of acid.

been of the best and that the field was anything but dry, they expressed themselves as being particularly pleased. The information that Saturday's weather prospects were far from bright seemed also to be good news to them.

Asked whether or not he had any new kick formations, Ronnie McPherson would say nothing. "This," he said, "is a subject upon which I will not speak."

The Toronto coach is looking for a hard fight, though he refuses absolutely to make any predictions of any sort whatsoever. "I expect a very close game, but that is all I intend saying on this subject." He has brought with him 22 men, including two trainers.

I'LL DO MY BEST - SNYDER

"Will Lose the Game for us" Says Toronto Captain

Windsor Station, Nov. 19.—On the arrival of the Toronto football here this afternoon, Warren Snyder, captain of the team was asked if he would do McGill a favor tomorrow. "Yes," he replied, "What can I do for you?"

"Lose the game for us" was the reply.

"I'll do my level best," was Snyder's repartee.

Judgment once made by the Supreme Court, according to the Supreme Court Act. We can, however, still appeal by grace, according to the King's Prerogative. The object of the clause would be to do away with this appeal by grace so that it would be unconstitutional to appeal in any way to the Privy Council.
"The bill will be discussed on its own merits in the house, and then referred to the provinces. If a sufficient number of these are in favor of the amendment, it will be sent to the British House of Commons."
This startling move on the part of our Prime Minister may create a crisis in the country. The outcome of the debate will be looked forward to with the greatest of eagerness by the nation at large, and in certain quarters it is even rumored that the government will be defeated on the measure. This rumor, however, cannot be taken as an index to popular opinion.

Editor,
McGill Daily,
Montreal, Que.
Dear Sir:—It is indeed to be regretted that the Secretary of the Athletic Board "Brass Tacks" MacDonald and yourself through your editorial "Those Athletic Tickets" are arguing some what beside the point in the controversy regarding student admission to Saturday's Rugby game, that is by saying that this is not a home game and that the C. I. A. U. is responsible for making us pay to see the game. Had the McGill Athletic Board desired it could either made better arrangements with the C. I. A. U. (in which Union McGill is represented similarly to Queen's and Varsity) or else pay for our admission on out of its share of the pooled receipts from the games here and Toronto. This should be so especially because of the fact that this is an unexpected game resulting from the three-cornered tie. Owing to the fact that the games above mentioned are unexpected ones it is all the more reason why the C. I. A. U. and our Athletic Board should be satisfied with what money they get from the pooled receipts. Also the Athletic Board should only be to willing to honour our expensive Athletic Coupons and make some arrangement satisfactory to the other members of the C. I. A. U.
The method of increasing the revenue of the Athletic Board by refusing to honour our expensive Athletic Coupons may be a good one from the material point of view but otherwise it is an act grossly lacking in dignity and principle. We heard much around McGill — and I dare say the same is true in most colleges — about "Sport for Sports' sake!" The McGill Athletic Board and the C. I. A. U. would do well to think of that fact instead of looking at it from the point of view of gate receipts.

There is still much being said about the Athletic Board's action in arranging the game for fifty cents with one or more provisos attached while the public would have to pay a dollar or more. "Sportsmanship" would demand that the former be allowed in with their expensive Athletic Coupons and the public at the usual rate.
This is the first time that there has been a three-cornered tie in Canadian Intercollegiate Rugby and it is not likely to happen again for many years to come. Because of this, it would have been well for both the Athletic Board and the C. I. A. U. to have lost a few dollars by honouring our expensive Athletic Coupons and make up for the loss by gaining the respect of the Student body and the general public.
May I say also that the Athletic Board has taken rather a great deal for granted when it feels that in this matter "It has almost the unanimous support of the whole student body."
Yours truly,
H. ALTNER

The Editor,
McGill Daily
Dear Sir:—Let us compliment the authorities who were responsible for the distribution of Rooters' tickets following last night's practice. Indeed each one merits a medal! Such a spectacle would put to shame any barbaric festival of the fiercest Fiji cannibals.
Of these present fifty per cent were outsiders. Thus they received the benefits (?) which was intended for McGill students only. Then again the latter were stamped and crushed like cattle. The damage done to the students wearing apparel and entrances of the stadium are a side-issue.
Does this incident which was inevitable, reflect well on those in charge? A better system could easily have been employed.
Trusting that this occurrence will never be repeated.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir:— It is customary, and rightfully so, to sing the National Anthem (verse one before all football games. However, due to the importance of the big game Saturday, do you not think the third verse would be more appropriate? It goes, as far as I remember, something like this:
O Lord our God, arise,
Scatter our enemies
And make them fall.
Confound their politics
Frustrate their knavish tricks.
On ye our hopes we fix.
God save us all.
This could be appropriately followed by a McGill yell.

Yours truly,
PATRIOT
The Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir:— Nothing has of late years appeared so despicable, so disgusting, so offending to the mind of any intelligent man at the entrance into our college life of a highly developed form of professional sport. I am not trying to deride professional sport. Professional sport is not half as detrimental to the general welfare as when associated and interrelated with the life of a University. To see a professional prize-fight, staged under professional managers and for profit, is not half so bad as to see a bunch of agony-stricken rooters, howling their heads off for a college team, whose relation to real sport, (i.e. sport which is devoid of all that is commercial and professional) is as flat as an old glass of beer. I hope I am not misunderstood, I do not mean that the members of any college team are professional athletes; all I mean is that the system whereby most of the chief sports are carried on in college is basically, commercial and professional and as such dangerous to the welfare of the University, and of society.

Why should a university whose ideals must be the loftiest and the noblest, who is supposed to be far, very far "from the madding crowds ignoble strife" engage and pay athletic managers, professional coaches etc., whose functions are absolutely useless to a University and to society in general.

We need sport. Nobody can deny this and we even need it in college but here is the point. We need college sport only so much and so far as is necessary to the physical and moral welfare of our youth. But no more. Once it becomes one of these grand affairs held in tremendous large stadiums, soaking both the public and making suckers out of the student body, then I say, with all the emphasis in my power that the students must get together and put a halt to such hideous proceedings. And if the mountain does not come to Mohammed, Mohammed must take a taxi to the mountain. If we do not stop the commercialism and the professionalism which has eaten into our university sport, the life of the university will begin to rot from its own inherent defects.

Take for example the football game, Saturday. Major Forbes tells us that the C. I. A. U. has decided that two games should be played—the first in Montreal and the second in Toronto. I'd like to ask Major Forbes who are the C. I. A. U., and since when were they endowed with that sovereign power to do whatever they want. Why was it decided to play the two games in the largest cities. Was there no other consideration except gate-receipts? Is that sportsmanship?
You, Major Forbes have neither the courage to tell the student body that college football is a good business and carried on, on professional principles nor that high degree of blatant sophistry which would be necessary for any defense of your false standpoint.

The highly gifted athletic manager tells us that the Board can well make use of the money. Who can not make use of money? Why does not the Major ask himself: can most of the students afford to throw away five dollar notes on worthless books of tickets? And another thing where did the learned Major procure that divine right to judge what the Board should do with the money of students.
They talk about college spirit, rooters' clubs etc. Where is the college spirit of the Board? Yes, they have College Spirit; to increase the gate-receipts at football contests for reasons, God only knows.

Real college contests should be carried on without extra large stadiums, without artificially inflated publicity, without organized rooters clubs without paid athletic managers and without paid coaches. The place of contest should be open fields with the price of admission only just enough to cover expenses, or should be made up of voluntary contributions. Then we would have real spirit and not Spirit.

Why it will soon come to this that prize-fighters and weight-lifters will soon have more say in our college life

GRADS ENGINEER ADDRESSES CHEMICAL

Liquid carbon dioxide is kept under a pressure of 1000 lbs. to the square inch; and its sudden release through a special nozzle, causes it to contract and to solidify, and to come out in the form of a miniature snow storm. It puts the first out because of its very pressure, the cold temperature that it produces, and because it shuts out the air and does not support combustion. It is being used extensively now in large manufacturing plants, in mines and oil-drilling, on oil tankers and cargo ships, and in the prevention of fires in electric transformers.
Carbon dioxide is a colourless, inert gas, which, when pure, has a pleasant odour. It has a critical pressure of 1080 lbs. per sq. in. at 56 degrees below zero centigrade. It is slightly soluble in water, forming carbonic acid in solution. It is non-poisonous, but does not support combustion. Medically its greatest use is as a respiratory stimulant, when it is given intervenously during respiratory failure during other anaesthesia.

CHANSON DE FOOTBALL

(Written after reading numerous sports stories in the American manner.)
The gladders have now donned their moleskins
To prime for the opening rout:
Some boot the pigskin, while others
Are thumping the oval about.
And some are tossing the leather
To learn a bunch of new tricks.
While others are hurling the hoghide
To point for the season's first mix.
Some mentors are shouting and telling
Their proteges what they must know:
Some tutors are grooming their charges
Anew for next Saturday's go.
Always they're priming and pointing
Expecting a gruelling fray:
Will someone stand up and tell me
How sports writers get that way?

Five minutes later umbrella and paper had disappeared. In their place was another notice:
"Umbrella is now in possession of the champion Marathon runner of the world. He is not coming back."
